

Knights of Columbus Picnic

The Knights of Columbus is a Catholic men's organization which promotes charity work throughout the world by hosting different fundraising activities as well as selling affordable life insurance to their membership and their families. During the month of July they hosted a recognition dinner to honor brothers who were getting awards because they went above and beyond in their local communities. This years picnic was on July 25th from 6:00 to 9:00. Approximately twenty five brothers and family members were in attendance for the event.

I was the photographer who took pictures of the night events and created a shutterfly account for the Knights to upload pictures to be used in their newsletter. I hope to add more pictures in the future of events I attend with my family. The master of ceremonies for this event was the Grand Knight, David Wechter and he presented most of the awards to the award recipients. As the evening went on I continued to take random pictures and helped organized more formal shots of all the people who received awards.

This event provided me an opportunity to use my new camera which proved to be a good learning experience to see how my new camera would perform. I must admit that I was very happy with the response time of the camera, the shutter speed and the final pictures that were produced. It was also interesting hearing why the people were getting the awards for example one family the husband was in the service and his wife worked on a radio station. Another one was a boy who was becoming a priest. I also learned that I could get a scholarship at Walsh University because my dad is a Knight. The best part of this experience was the compliments on the quality of the pictures and the open invitation that they extended to me to take pictures future events. It is always good feels good to be appreciated.
